Structural failure of the fastener due to red rust corrosion will be deemed to have occurred when the fastener will no longer retain the panel as required in a normal application due exclusively to the failure of the head of the fastener as a direct result of red rust corrosion. The warranty DOES NOT APPLY if the failure was caused by improper application of the fastener, use of faulty or worn sockets, in-transit or job site damage, improper installation of the fastener, external forces, explosions, fires, "acts of God", or natural disasters. This warranty applies only to buyer and is not transferable or assignable.
